SEMINAR DESCRIPTION

Ideas matter. Innovations can change the future of companies. But in any organization, having good ideas is never enough. Those ideas also need to be “marketed” within companies. No matter what their functional role, executives and managers must regularly sell ideas to decision-makers, peers, and subordinates. In this highly interactive program, you’ll learn what it takes to successfully advocate your ideas. Successful advocates know how important it is to clearly communicate their ideas, how their reputations shape how people respond to their ideas, how they need to build partnerships and alliances with others in getting ideas adopted, how they must “pre-sell” any idea long before formal meetings, and how to be persuasive and influential in meetings. We will discuss new research on each of those topics - research that offers you interesting and surprising ways to champion innovations in your organization.
