HOW TO BUILD YOUR EXECUTIVE PRESENCE AND IMPACT

Having executive presence and impact is essential for leadership and career success. This program provides clarity on the actionable strategies participants can put to work right away to inspire confidence, command attention and gain the respect of senior decision makers from the moment they enter the room (including zoom) through to the end of the meeting. An important aspect of executive presence is how to sound like an executive, this program will teach you that skill from "small talk" to the important things. You will also learn to take control of the 3 most important phases you will face in your career.
